AMPERSAND BRANDS

Formed in 2025, Ampersand Brands is on a mission to craft the most coveted confections platform in the United States—blending handcrafted nostalgia with modern specialty gifting and indulgent innovation.

We proudly bring together Lolli & Pops, a modern nostalgic candy experience, and Hammond's Candies, a century-old, handcrafted classic— alongside Mitchell's Sweets, McGraw's Taffy, and Old Dominion, each rooted in heritage and beloved by generations. Together, we are preserving the tradition of delight while innovating for the next generation. This next chapter builds on legacy brands, strengthened by operational scale, and driven forward with renewed creativity and a shared passion for joy.

BRAND HISTORY

1920'S

NATIONAL TREASURE

In 1920, a young Carl Hammond began working as a candy-maker's apprentice. With an entrepreneurial spirit, he founded Hammond's Candies right here in Denver.

In the early years, Carl did it all: he developed the recipes, crafted and sold the candy, and was his own office staff. Eventually, Carl hired someone to manage the store while he traveled the West, marketing his candy to other stores.

EXPANSION

During the 60s, Carl Hammond decided to retire from the candy making industry, so Tim Hammond and his wife June, together with their five kids, took over the company. Tom continued to expand factory operations and purchased an enrober, a machine used to coat treats in rich, smooth chocolate. At one time or another, each of Tom's four sons worked in the business, but it was his only daughter, Robin, who chose the candy business as her career.

WORLD WAR II

Upon return from World War II, Carl's only son, Tom Hammond, joined him in the factory to learn the art of candy making. While father and son focused on candy production, Tom's wife, June Hammond managed the business. Hammond's customer base and popularity expanded with the introduction of Mitchell Sweets, a fluffy and sweet combination of caramel and marshmallow.

GENERATIONS

Robin's husband Emery Dorsey IV joined the business in 1985, learning candy making from Tom. He later managed the factory and helped drive a hard candy expansion, producing candy canes and Christmas mix candies. After purchasing a candy crimper, Emery introduced classic ribbon hard candy and jumbo candy canes — a nostalgic success. With Robin and June's help, he carried Hammond's traditions forward. Hammond's grew from a local treasure to a national name when Williams-Sonoma placed an order for hand-twisted lollipops, almond toffee, and peppermint pillows, quickly becoming a nationwide gourmet confection brand.

2000'S NATIONAL TREASURE

Hammond's Candies entered a new era when the keys were passed to three candy industry veterans, ushering in a period of significant growth. The company expanded rapidly, doubling the size of its factory and growing from 10 employees to more than 60. During this time, Hammond's also opened the factory to the public for the first time, offering tours and launching its annual Candy Cane Festival each December. As the business continued to grow, Hammond's moved to its current home—a 35,000-square-foot facility just north of downtown Denver.

2012 L&P FOUNDING

The first Lolli & Pops store opened in Tulsa, Oklahoma in February 2012, and the brand quickly expanded, reaching 32 stores across 13 states within three years. During this period, the company also began establishing its first wholesale relationships, starting with Nordstrom. Building on this momentum, Lolli & Pops continued its growth trajectory in 2016 with the opening of 16 new stores across six additional states, including its first airport location.

2010'S GROWTH

In 2010 Hammond's acquired McCraw's Candies and in 2012 they acquired Old Dominion Peanut Company, further diversifying their product catalogue. In the 2010s, Hammond's expanded beyond its traditional hard candies into packaged chocolate bars as part of a broader retail and product expansion. The line was further developed in 2018 with the launch of Belgian chocolate tablet bars, strengthening Hammond's presence in the premium confectionery category.

PRESENT GENERATIONS

By 2017, the company had significantly expanded its wholesale distribution, securing notable partners including Anthropologie, Hudson News, Papyrus, and Four Seasons Hotels and Resorts. By mid-2023, Lolli & Pops had grown to more than 50 stores across 25+ states. In October 2024, L&P completed the acquisition of Hammond's, financed by A-CAP, which assumed control in March 2025. Today, the combined company operates more efficiently as a scaled confectionery platform with both retail and manufacturing capabilities.

FACTORY TOUR

HANDCRAFTED IN DENVER SINCE 1920

At Hammond's, we've been making candy the thoughtful way for over a century-by hand, in small batches, right here in Colorado. Each ribbon candy, lollipop, and chocolate bar is crafted with care. real ingredients, and just the right touch of nostalgia. But it's not just about how our candy is made-it's about what it creates: shared smiles, celebrated moments, and sweet connections that last. From the factory floor to family tables, every Hammond's treat is a little gesture of everyday generosity. Now part of the Ampersand Brands family, we proudly carry on this Denver-born heritage, continuing to craft confections that say what words sometimes cannot. Turns out. some of the best traditions start with the tastebuds.
